WHY CHOOSE MAXBAT™

MaxBat is dedicated to the great game of baseball and the millions who play it. We manufacture professional grade bats from a superior wood selection. Our meticulous craftsmanship and engineering produces a bat with great balance, tremendous power, and outstanding feel. MaxBat is one of the most popular bats in professional, amateur and youth baseball worldwide. We do not compromise on wood quality, finish quality, or service. Unlike many other bat brands, your custom MaxBat is manufactured from start to finish right here by us in our state-of-the-art facility in Brooten, Minnesota. Only the best wood with the best grain can become a MaxBat.

WHY OUR BATS KICK ASH

Maple is without a doubt the wood of choice throughout all levels of baseball because of its strength and durability. However, not all maple is the same. MaxBat uses only the strongest and hardest of hardwoods, grown in regions of the globe that produce the absolute best maple available. Only the straightest grained maple with virtually zero defects in the stock can be used in MaxBat production. In fact, the raw materials used to make our bats are the most coveted in the industry and are absolutely worth the investment.

In order to meet the demands of all of our players, MaxBat has added Yellow Birch and Northern White Ash to our wood species list. This does not mean that our quality standards have changed. We will not compromise on wood quality just to save a few dollars. Icons denote which models are available in each species. Please call if you have a specific question about availability of species and models.

OUR MAPLE KICKS ASH

CUSTOM MADE TO YOUR SPECIFICATIONS

AVAILABLE WOOD SPECIES

Rock Maple

Rock Maple continues to be the most popular wood species used for bat production, and at MaxBat, we only use the best. Because maple is such an extremely hard and dense wood, players often comment that the ball jumps off the barrel of their maple bat like no other. Maple creates bats that are extremely hard, with little or no flex.

Yellow Birch

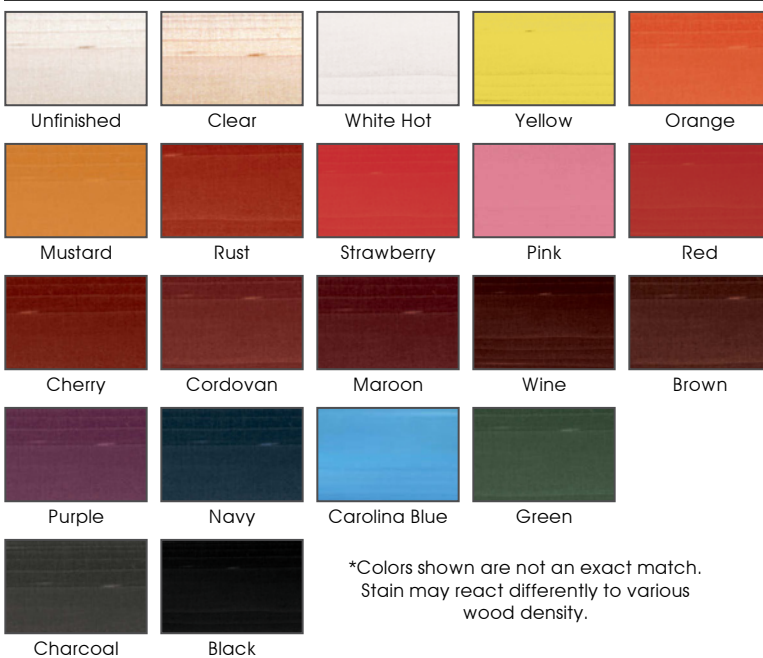

Yellow Birch is a fibrous hardwood that many players prefer because in their words "is the perfect combination between Maple and Ash". This hardwood is a shade lighter than its maple counterpart, which allows us to utilize this species when turning full barreled bats that require a lighter weight.

Northern White Ash

Northern Ash had been the preferred hardwood used for bat production for close to a century, before Maple hit the scene in the late '90s. Ash is still a popular choice among baseball players because of its ability to flex more than other hardwoods. Players who prefer Ash typically choose this species for its flexibility at the point of contact with the baseball, producing what some describe as a springboard effect.

STAIN COLORS*

LOGO AND BAND COLORS*

*On two-toned bats the band color will match the logo color, on solid colored bats there is no band. Additional custom colors are available.

X KNOB OPTION

X KNOB

Originally an exclusive feature of the MBX, the flared design of the X Knob helps protect the hamate bone from bruising and greatly increases the bat's balance. The X Knob is available on any MaxBat model upon request.

WHO'S SWINGIN' A MAXBAT

Wil Myers

Top Prospect

"The very first time I used a MaxBat was at the Perfect Game Underclass Showcase in Ft. Myers, FL during my junior year of high school. The ball came off the MaxBats harder than any other wood bat that I had ever swung before, and from that point forward it's been the only bat I've used. Every Perfect Game event that I went to I made sure to buy a MaxBat to use for the tournament. After the success and comfort I've had with MaxBats, I look forward to it being the only bat I swing in the professional ranks."

WHY THE TOP PROSPECTS SWING MAXBAT

Nick Weglarz

"The ball jumps off the MaxBat better than anything I've ever used. It's a good feeling knowing that every time I walk up to the plate I have the best bat on the market in my hands."

-Nick Weglarz

Brad Emaus

"I started using MaxBat right after being drafted and immediately knew they were what I wanted to swing. If you prefer to swing the hardest quality made maple bat on the market then you need to get a MaxBat. I have tried many different models and found the B21 to be my favorite. The bat is very well balanced with a large head, great for both contact and power. I have always and will continue to swing MaxBat for the rest of my career. Thank you MaxBat!"

-Brad Emaus

Hank Conger

"I've been using MaxBat since I first signed to play professional baseball, and there's a reason why I'm so loyal to them. The turnaround time is incredibly quick and the feel and hardness of their bats is something that I have confidence in every time I step up to the plate. MaxBat has so many different models to choose from as well, and they helped me find the right model just for me. MaxBat has definitely helped my game."

-Hank Conger

Trevor Plouffe

"I've been swinging MaxBats since day one of my pro career. No other bat company matches the quality and consistency of their maple and ash. My teammates and I used MaxBats when defeating the Cubans in the gold medal game of the 2009 IBAF World Cup. Honestly, there is simply no better bat on the market."

-Trevor Plouffe

Nate Freiman

"The ball jumps off of these bats, and they helped me hit over 40 doubles this season. I cannot be happier with the products and the superior service at MaxBat, and I look forward to swinging them again in 2011."

-Nate Freiman

Chris Marrero

"Ever since I started using MaxBat, I've never even thought of using another brand. And why would I? The bats are always the hardest and most balanced, and that's extremely important to me. The people at MaxBat obviously care about the players who use their bats, because I get great service and always get my MaxBats on time."

-Chris Marrero

Kyle Skipworth

"I'm always amazed at the performance I get out of my MaxBats. No other bat provides the strength, durability, and balance of MaxBat, and they are the only bats that I'll use."

-Kyle Skipworth

Chris Owings

"I was 16 when I purchased my first MaxBat, and there was an immediate difference in the way the ball came off the barrel. I actually hit a homerun in my first game with it, and now MaxBat is the only bat I'll use in my professional career. The service is great and I know I'm going to get my bats fast too."

-Chris Owings
